following Legal Notice:

Madam,

1. My client is a native of Tamil Nadu and is currently employed at DBS Bank in Hyderabad, holding a superior/senior managerial cadre. You were employed as a colleague in the same office under a lower cadre, where you became acquainted with my client in the year 2024.
2. Due to working closely in the same office environment, you developed a romantic interest toward my client and formally proposed to him in the year 2025. Initially, my client declined your proposal and chose to remain silent, as he was bearing extensive financial and family responsibilities and was not seeking marriage at that juncture.

3. Despite his initial refusal, you persistently attempted to convince my client. Subsequently, after returning from a spiritual pilgrimage to Kashi in June 2025, my client accepted your proposal. Demonstrating bona fide intentions, my client, along with his family members, visited your parental home in Parkal to discuss marriage alliances. Both families consented, and your engagement ceremony was solemnized on September 11, 2025 at Thirutthani, Tamilnadu.
4. Following the engagement, the marriage was fixed for November 13, 2025. Although your family was financially weak, my client and his family voluntarily chose to celebrate a simple, completely no-dowry marriage, with the sole intention of building a harmonious and happy marital life with you.
5. On the wedding day, when my client and his family members arrived at the venue i.e, Seetharama Kalyana Mandapam, Rupireddypally, Regonda, Jayashankar Bhupalpally, they faced profound embarrassment as none of your family members or representatives came forward to receive them. Despite being stranded in an unfamiliar place without local assistance, my client chose to remain calm and cooperated entirely to ensure the sanctity of the wedding rituals was not compromised.
6. Prior to the marriage, in consultation with you, my client leased a flat near Balkampet Temple, Hyderabad, at a monthly rent of ₹28,000/-, borne entirely by him. Following the marriage, you and my client commenced your matrimonial life at the said premises.
7. From the absolute inception of the marriage, you exhibited an highly argumentative and volatile temperament. For the first two weeks, my client patiently endured these frequent arguments, assuming it to be a temporary adjustment phase, and constantly tried to accommodate your demeanor.

8. Shortly thereafter, your arguments escalated into severe mental and emotional harassment. While my client habitually maintained silence to avoid domestic friction, you refused to allow any space for resolution. Your behavior rapidly turned violent, escalating to unprovoked physical assaults. My client bore this continuous physical abuse silently, harboring a hope that your erratic behavior would improve over time.
9. On March 5, at approximately 09:00 PM, you abruptly attempted to storm out of the house into the night. Out of concern for your safety, my client earnestly requested you not to leave at such an unearthly hour. Finding no other alternative, my client informed your parents about your hostile and unstable conduct. However, your parents, completely manipulated by your fabricated narratives, chose to insult, demean, and threaten my client, explicitly stating that he was "unfit" for you, and advising you to abandon him so they could arrange another marriage.
10. You repeatedly weaponized suicidal threats to blackmail my client. On multiple occasions, you attempted to slash your wrists with sharp objects, ingest unidentified medical pills, and threatened to leap from the top floor of the building. You explicitly stated to my client that you derived psychological "pleasure" and validation from executing such horrific and violent acts.
11. Despite these extreme provocations, my client continued his best efforts to sustain the marital bond. Although my client continuously apprised your parents of your suicidal tendencies and psychological abuse, they failed to intervene or seek corrective counsel for you.

12. In April, with a bona fide intention to rejuvenate the marriage, my client organized a surprise vacation to Sikkim to celebrate your birthday. Because of the high altitude, my client suffered severe health complications, including continuous vomiting and physical exhaustion. Despite his failing health, my client prioritized your happiness throughout the entire duration of the trip.
13. Upon returning to Hyderabad, you shockingly subjected my client to extreme cruelty and humiliation. You explicitly hurled abuses labeling him as "impotent" and "unfit to be a man," baselessly asserting that he failed to engage in sexual relations during the trip, deliberately ignoring his severe medical discomfort. To aggravate the insult, you brutally defamed my client's mother several times before him and failed to respect his mother whenever she visited your place.
14. You completely disregarded his affection and health condition, subjecting him to relentless physical and mental abuse. When my client tried to defend his dignity and requested you not to involve his mother in the disputes, you escalated the verbal altercation into severe physical violence.
15. In response to your deteriorating conduct, mediation sessions were initiated involving my client's family, mutual well-wishers, and your family members to pacify the situation. Regrettably, your hostile attitude went from bad to worst. You explicitly threatened the family members and well-wishers with self-harm and suicide if they ever attempted to intervene again.

16. The marital discord reached its peak on May 5, when you initiated a severe altercation. While my client attempted to de-escalate the conflict, you violently choked his neck and repeatedly struck him on the head with a cricket bat. You then proceeded to fetch a kitchen knife and stabbed my client three times, causing grievous bodily injuries. My client managed to video-record portions of this brutal assault to preserve evidence of your homicidal intent. You explicitly threatened to terminate his life within one month. Fearing for his life, my client fled the premises to seek emergency medical treatment and has since lived in hiding under extreme trauma.
17. Desiring not to escalate the matter into a public criminal proceeding at that specific moment, my client refrained from immediately lodging a formal Police Complaint. However, he promptly notified your parents of the life-threatening assault, informing them that he was vacating the house for his own safety and asking them to take custody of you.
18. Subsequently, you abandoned the rented matrimonial home. Once your departure was verified, my client re-entered the house and was forced to summon his elderly mother from Tamil Nadu to reside with him, as he continues to suffer from severe physical trauma from the knife stabs and lives under the persistent, looming threat of elimination by you.
19. Your deliberate, systematic acts of physical violence, homicidal assault, verbal defamation, and recurring blackmail via suicidal threats constitute severe and irreversible legal cruelty, making it completely impossible and unsafe for my client to cohabit with you under one roof.

I, therefore, through this Legal Notice, call upon you to consent to a dissolution of marriage by mutual consent within a period of 15 days from the date of receipt of this notice. Failing which, I have strict instructions from my client to institute appropriate legal proceedings against you before the Competent Criminal and Family Court for the Registration of Crime and Dissolution of Marriage/Divorce on the grounds of Cruelty, and on other legal grounds entirely at your risk, cost, and legal consequences. Further it is instructed not to interfere with life and liberty of my client, his friends and family through calls, not to disturb at work place and visit residence without following proper legal procedure.

Copy of this notice is retained in my office for future reference.
